

To Whom It May Concern,

IELC is a great place to develop and flourish as a teacher. I came there with not more than one year of classroom experience, and several years of online teaching experience, and the work that I did at IELC was the most challenging and valuable I have done in the field. Through teaching in diverse settings, frequent observations and feedback sessions, and regular meetings and workshops, I was able to very quickly see where and how to improve my skills and given the motivation to do so. Working alongside friendly teachers was a daily source of guidance and inspiration to maintain a high standard of work. The amazing staff also made me feel very welcome and happy to be at the school. They do their absolute best to keep teachers secure and comfortable while living in Solo.

Nina and Anthony are excellent people to work for. They expect good work from everyone but manage IELC with a very real and human attitude. They are incredibly accommodating of teacher's needs and styles, and genuinely want to see their employees grow and do well. As a relatively new teacher facing the difficulties and problems in teaching, I was shown immense patience and encouragement to develop a set of skills that I will continue to build on and will be invaluable in my career. I couldn't give IELC a stronger endorsement.
